Family Planning Association of Nepal

Champion of Family Planning and SRHR with 66 Years of Journey

Family Planning Association of Nepal (FPAN), established in 1959, is the first and foremost NGO to work for advocacy of, increasing awareness on, and increasing access to family planning (FP) and sexual and reproductive health (SRH) in Nepal. It has started FP and SRH programs even before the Nepal government launched national FP and Maternal and Child Health Project in 1969. FPAN has been a member association of the International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF), since 1969. This has made FPAN a locally owned, globally connected civil society, enabling it to advocate for, to increase awareness on, and to provide a wide range of SRH service and rights (SRHR) to everyone without any discrimination by gender, age and socioeconomic status. As a member association of IPPF, we share a common vision that all people are free to make choices about their sexuality and wellbeing without any judgement and discrimination.

The main objectives of FPAN's programs are to build demand generation for SRHR of everyone at the community level, advocate for favorable SRHR policies from local to central level, demonstrate innovative and cost-effective approaches, and empower poor, marginalized, vulnerable, youth and socially excluded people.

Family Planning in Nepal means FPAN

Strength of FPAN

Strong Volunteer Base: FPAN is a volunteer-based organisation. It has a large pool of about eleven thousand professional volunteers who play proactive and meaningful roles for the promotion of SRHR, community mobilization, advocacy for favourable policies, and resource mobilization. It has branch committee and branch office in 28 of 77 districts, and a central executive committee at central level. Half of the board members in all branch committees and central committee are female and 27% are youth.

Professional Staff: Currently, FPAN has more than 200 employees, including full time employees, consultant and short term employees. More than half of them are trained FP and SRH service providers. FPAN emphasizes for gender and social inclusion, more than half of its employees are females.

Pioneer in FP/SRH Service Delivery: FPAN closely works in coordination and collaboration with governments, private sector partners, local organizations, and communities to provide a wide range of FP and SRH services adopting rights-based approach by respecting rights of everyone to receive informed choice of quality FP and SRH service without any fear, stigma, shame judgement or any discrimination, prioritizing to people in the most marginalized or vulnerable situations who face the biggest barriers to accessing SRH services and realizing their SRHR. In order to increase the accessibility of FP and SRH services, FPAN has been implementing different channels of service delivery i.e. static clinics, mobile outreach, mobile FP/SRH camps, community-based distribution (CBD), and teleconsultation through helpline.

Currently, FPAN has 28 Branch offices, and 32 static centres spread in 30 districts, covering all seven provinces: 18 doctor-based Family Health Clinics (FHCs) - including 8 FP/SRH training centres, 3 birthing centres and 14 Branch Community Clinics (BCCs). FPAN mobilizes its mobile teams to conduct outreach at community level; and mobilizes its frontline health workers and Reproductive Health Female Volunteers (RHFVs) to provide counselling at doorsteps and community-based distribution of short acting contraceptives. FPAN also mobilizes peer educators from target group and vulnerable groups i.e., people with disabilities, people living with HIV, young people and sex workers. It runs a helpline telephone service to provide quality information, counselling and referral services on FP/SRH, by trained counsellors. FPAN offers an integrated package of essential services (IPES) through its FHCs, including contraceptives, safe abortion care, HIV & AIDS, STIs/RTIs, gynecology, obstetrics, sexual and gender-based violence services, and sexuality counselling. On average, FPAN provides nearly 3.5 million services per year.

Integrated Package of Essential Services

Pioneer in FP/SRH Training: FPAN runs eight government-accredited FP/SRH training centers, which are aligned with its Family Health Clinics in different provinces. These training centers help to fulfill the training needs of the government, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), and FPAN itself.

Pioneer in Advocacy for SRHR: FPAN has played an important role in advocating for SRHR of all, working together with the Government and other stakeholders. Specifically, it has played a significant role in advocacy for legalisation of safe abortion- registering the Pregnancy Protection Bill in the parliament in 1996, declaration of 18th September as "National Family Planning Day" since, 2014 and inclusion of CSE in school curriculum 2011 & in School Education Sector Plan-2022/23.
